

MINES MUST NOT CLOSE, PINCHOT WARNS

Washington Shifts Hard Coal Problem To States

Federal Government Feels Lack Of Authority To Seize Mines
PINCHOT MAY WIN PRESTIGE
President Hopes For Peace By Agreement Rather Than Coercion

Washington—The federal government is trying to pass the responsibility for getting coal to the several states. Feeling that authority is lacking to seize mines and operate them, the administration here will attempt to put into operation a plan that was discussed and approved a year ago when the soft coal strike was in effect.

Secretary Hoover is believed to be the author of the plan. It is that the states which have plenty of law and authority shall take the initiative and seize the mines if necessary in order to get fuel, the federal government lending a hand whenever possible.

The fact that the anthracite strike centers in Pennsylvania and that Governor Pinchot is the kind of a state executive who can be relied upon to act courageously, makes the field for the experiment much more favorable than it was a year ago when many governors of various political faiths and economic beliefs had to be taken into consultation. In short, the federal government did not feel that it has had the persuasive influence they which it now has with Pennsylvania, but should the experiment succeed, it is hoped other states would be inclined to follow the example of Governor Pinchot.

The formal description of the situation which one obtains at the White House is as follows:

WASHINGTON COOPERATES
"There is one word that will indicate the situation in Pennsylvania and that word is 'cooperation' between the governor of Pennsylvania and the United States authorities. The United States coal commission will furnish Governor Pinchot all the information that he may desire and he will cooperate with the federal government in undertaking 'to further negotiations and help in trying to settle the situation. He has jurisdiction that is more intimate and complete over the property and the persons that are engaged in the mining of anthracite coal than that which is held by the United States authorities.'

The foregoing gives enough of a hint of what is expected by the federal government of the state executives to show what's coming. The states will exert pressure either by actually closing the mines and making new wage contracts with the men or by threatening to do the same. It was revealed at the White House also that the distribution of coal would be handled by the states after it reached them and that the federal government through the interstate commerce commission would issue the necessary orders so that coal could be expedited over the interstate railroads to the centers of distribution.

UNFAIR FOR GOVERNMENT
Naturally there is an unwillingness at the White House to concede that the new plan means an abandonment by the federal government of its vital interest in the problem. The executive offices here issued the comment that it would not be fair for the federal government to undertake to turn this problem over to the government of each state and it was insisted that Governor Pinchot, for instance, volunteered to come in and help in fact, the president would like to have the impression conveyed that the federal government isn't abandoning anything to the states and the states are not abandoning anything to the federal government.

But the truth is members of congress and constitutional authorities who were consulted a year ago came to the conclusion that the federal government was without sufficient law to act in a coal emergency and that only the states could do what the American people had come to believe the federal government could do. The president hopes for peace by agreement rather than by any form of coercion or force but he stands ready to cooperate with any state that takes drastic measures.

All eyes are now on Governor Pinchot and although police haven't been a factor on the surface, there are many people here who believe that Governor Pinchot may win national prestige out of the coal situation so as to become the candidate for vice-president on the Coolidge ticket. A strike situation gave Mr. Coolidge himself the fame that prompted the Republican convention of 1920 to select him for the vice-presidency and it may do the same for Pinchot.

Police Search For Raiders In Georgia Death
By Associated Press
Savannah, Ga.—City and county officials were scouring east Savannah, a negro settlement, and the surrounding country at an early hour Monday morning in search for an unknown number of white men in three automobiles who drove through the settlement and fired more than a hundred shots into houses, killing one negro, according to reports, and wounding a number of others.

No motive for the firing is known. They appeared suddenly and commenced shooting without warning. It was said. County policemen were immediately rushed to east Savannah but were unable to learn very little from the terrified negroes other than that the men in the three automobiles were white.

Abbott, a klansman, was killed and a number of others wounded, one seriously. Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans and Sam D. Rich, king klansman of the Pennsylvania Klan, each have offered $2,500 reward for Abbott's slayer while the Pennsylvania organization in addition has authorized $2,500 for these responsible for the rioting.

Police Quiz Slayer Of Hermit On Axe Murders

By Associated Press
Baraboo—In the belief that Alvin Karpis, one of the allegedly confessed slayers of Robert Jaeger, Black Hawk recluse, knows more about the triple slaying of August, 1922 than he has told officials, District Attorney Henry J. Bohn of Sauk County prepared Monday to give the Madison painter one more chance to tell of any connection he may have with the slaying of the Saukco family, Jensen and John Galloway, both of whom have signed confessions telling of their part in killing Jaeger, are expected to be arraigned before Judge Adolph Andor, mayor of Baraboo, some time Monday. If they express an intention to plead guilty to the crime, Judge E. Ray Stevens of Madison will be called to sit in circuit court to receive their pleas and to pass sentence.

Officials said that they were counting much on the quiz of Jensen to determine what he knows about the brutal slaying of William Julius and Mary Balzer on their Cassel Prairie farm. The man is reported by the county officers to have shown intimate knowledge of details of that crime.

It has been learned that Galloway has a prison record at Anamosa, Ia., where he served in the reformatory for six years on conviction for grand larceny.

Investigators are still looking into the report that a third man is connected with the Jaeger killing.

JUNKING OF SHIPS STARTED BY NAVY

Six Boats Worn Out In Service While Seventh Is Not Yet Completed

San Francisco, Cal.—The destruction by hammer and torch of what many nations in the world might consider a fair sized navy, has been begun in two Pacific coast ship yards in compliance with orders based on the armament conference in Washington.

Seven "ships of the line" six of them outworn in service and the seventh, the latest of all, still less than half completed on the launching ways, are being fairly overrun Monday by "stripping crews" removing all ordnance and other works that "may come in handy" later. When the stripping is completed the hulls will either be disposed of to private owners for destruction or will be cut and junked by the government.

Foremost comes the great Montana, 27.6 per cent completed at Mare Island, but she is foremost in size only. In point of historical and tragic interest the Georgia, also at Mare Island, claims the greatest attention. Back in 1906 when this battleship was engaged in target practice off Provincetown, Mass., an explosion in one of her superguns killed 20 and nearly wrecked the ship.

John Saras, Madison, several ribs fractured and body cut and bruised.

All of the seriously injured are at St. Luke's hospital where four physicians were called while they were being brought into the city in a Milwaukee automobile.

Minneapolis Grain Firm Discovers Shortage After Disappearance

By Associated Press
Minneapolis—A shortage of at least $40,000 has been uncovered in the accounts of McCarthy Brothers grain company by an audit of the concern's books, J. H. McCarthy, president of the company announced Monday. The audit was made following the disappearance of an employee of the firm.

The audit is continuing, Mr. McCarthy said. The shortage may reach $60,000 or $75,000 he added. Search for the missing employee has been instituted by the Maryland Casualty company but no warrant for his arrest has been asked. It was said.

According to Mr. McCarthy, the employee worked with an accomplice in the Chamber of Commerce selling grain at the highest quotations of the day and entering the transaction on the company's records at the day's low.

WOMEN URGED TO TRY TO WIN PEACE PRIZE

Minneapolis—Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, has sent a letter to the five thousand woman's clubs of the organization, it was learned Monday calling their attention to the $100,000 American peace award created by Edward W. Bok, and reminding them that the award relates to the subject most dear to the women, Mrs. Winter wrote:

"We have learned that there is no use in talk alone. We must have the machinery. Perhaps in your midst or in the combined wisdom of your club will be found the solution. Please read and discuss and think about it."

APPLETON CAR STRIPPED BY THIEVES AFTER WRECK

The front end and the front wheels of a new Overland automobile were about all that was intact after the car met with an accident Sunday nine miles north of Black Creek. Thieves had taken the right rear wheel and broken the axle in order to remove it. They also took the batteries and the windshield. The top, side and the rear end of the car were badly wrecked. The car bore license number 288,944, which, according to police records, is owned by Carl Wedeward, 1221 Lawrence st., Appleton.

BIRKENHEAD IS NUISANCE SAYS BRITISH PRESS

Former Chancellor Receives No Support In Attack On Woodrow Wilson

By Associated Press
London—The Earl of Birkenhead has received little sympathy from the British press for the position in which he finds himself as a result of the first address of his American tour delivered last Friday evening before the Institute of Politics at Westminster. In fact, the press tends to heap coals on the fire laid by Henry Breckenridge, assistant secretary of war under President Wilson, when he criticized the earl for remarks about Mr. Wilson.

The Morning Post asserts that the effect of Birkenhead's injudicious remarks is to confirm the isolationists in the wisdom of their policy of turning their backs on Europe.

"L'ENFANT TERRIBLE"
In an editorial headed "L'Enfant Terrible Abroad," the Daily News says that the British do not like the American tariff laws, but would welcome an almost prohibitive tariff on the importation of former members of British cabinets and rigid customs examination of the contents of their lecture tour portfolios.

The Westminster Gazette hopes that undue importance will not be attached to Birkenhead's words, asserting that there are a few politicians in England today who speak so exclusively for themselves as does Birkenhead.

The Westminster Gazette points out the unfairness of arguing that Woodrow Wilson is the agent of the post-war conditions.

Europe is what it is because of the mistakes and misdeeds of those who have actually influenced its development and who were by no means disposed to help Wilson when his power was at its highest.

The Daily Herald, the Labor newspaper, offers an apology for the ex-chancellor, saying:

"He has long been regarded as a national nuisance and has now become a national danger."

DORTEN PARTY ASKS ALLIES' AID AFTER RAID

Rhenish, Separatists Attacked By Nationalists At Muenchen-Gladbach

By Associated Press
Duesseldorf—The League for Rhenish Independence Monday sent an appeal to the occupation authorities for "all possible moral and economic support" following the incident at Muenchen-Gladbach Sunday in which Nationalists, loyal to the Berlin government, attacked Separatists who were attempting to hold a meeting.

Dr. Hans Dorten, the Separatist leader, escaped the hostile crowds, according to the league authorities, only by passing himself off as an American journalist.

The league's appeal, which is in the form of a letter from its executive committee says:

"The demonstration organized in Muenchen-Gladbach by all the Nationalist elements of the surrounding country retarded the spirit of Prussian revenge that still animates the population and which in a few years will lead to a war of revenge against France and Belgium."

POLICE INACTIVE
The letter sets forth that eight thousand persons in Muenchen-Gladbach are members of the Rhenish Independent party and that four thousand others arrived from various cities to attend Sunday's meeting. The German police are alleged to have made no preparation to protect the gathering, although a permit for it had been issued by the authorities, and also to have failed to defend the independents from their attackers during the street fighting in which, the letter says, the Separatists were finally rescued only by a few Belgian gendarmes and soldiers.

The posters through which the Nationalists organized their successful raid on the Separatist were addressed to both the men and women.

The characterized Dr. Dorten as "known to be under the protection of the French," and concluded: "We wish to know those who betray their fatherland when it is in misery."

LaCrosse—Selma Krueger, 18, was killed early Monday morning on the south Salem road, three miles from the city when the auto in which she was riding skidded in soft earth on the side of the road, crashed into a telephone pole, and threw the girl out. Her skull was fractured.

Two other occupants of the car were uninjured.

POLICE GUARD ADLER HOME AS MOB THREATENS

Son Of Chicago Magnate Freed From Charge Of Attacking Young Girl

By Associated Press
Chicago—Municipal Judge Trude today dismissed a serious charge against Cyrus Adler son of Max Adler, wealthy Vice President of Sears Roebuck, by an aunt of a 15 year old Milwaukee school girl.

The relatives of the girl from whom young Adler fled with a revolver in his hand and from whose anger he was saved by a policeman, failed to appear in court.

The police reported to the judge that the girl's relatives were unwilling to press the charges against young Adler. After dismissing the charge that young Adler had attacked the girl while on an automobile ride, the judge continued a charge of carrying concealed weapons against him pending further investigation of the case.

"Since Adler fled from the home of the girl's aunt with her relatives and friends in pursuit, a police guard has been on duty at the Adler home."

ANGRY RELATIVES
Police were on guard at the home of Max Adler, vice president of Sears Roebuck and Co., whose 24 year old son, Cyrus Adler, narrowly escaped harsh treatment at the hands of angry relatives of a 15 year old girl, Sylvia Wagner, Milwaukee, whom he was charged with attacking.

Policeman Redman R. Gibbons waved his revolver threateningly at the crowd until a patrol wagon came with reinforcements and took the young man to the station. Young Adler, a few minutes before had backed out of the home of the girl's aunt with his own revolver pointed at the girl's relatives who chased him for three blocks.

The girl's aunt, with whom she had been on a visit from her home in Milwaukee, filed charges of carrying concealed weapons, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and a statutory charge.

Saturday afternoon, Adler called up the girl and Mrs. Liberman asked him to come over. Fearing trouble, Adler, it is said, took along his revolver and narrowly escaped serious injury at the hands of the girl's relatives.

Last Wednesday evening, the girl's aunt, Mrs. Julia Liberman, told the police Adler and a companion invited the girl and a friend, strangers to them, to take a ride in Adler's automobile. The girl accepted.

ARMY AGES SEEK TO SET NONSTOP FLIGHT RECORD

Airmen Resume Efforts Begun Last June; Planes Restocked In Transit

By Associated Press
San Diego, Cal.—Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant John F. Richter took off at 8:07 A. M. from Rockwell field, North Island, in an attempt to establish an aviation record for endurance, speed, and distance. The weather was cloudy and the officers circled about at an elevation of 500 feet. They planned to take fuel aboard their especially equipped plane while in flight in order to remain aloft from 45 to 50 hours.

Continuous flight for at least 45 hours, perhaps fifty hours, was the objective of the aviators, who represent the army. They expect to make the first contact with a refueling plane between 3:30 and 10 A. M. Thereafter they had planned to make contacts every two hours. The De Havilland plane manned by Captain Smith and Lieutenant Richter was expected to stay aloft on a course illuminated at night, over the environs of San Diego.

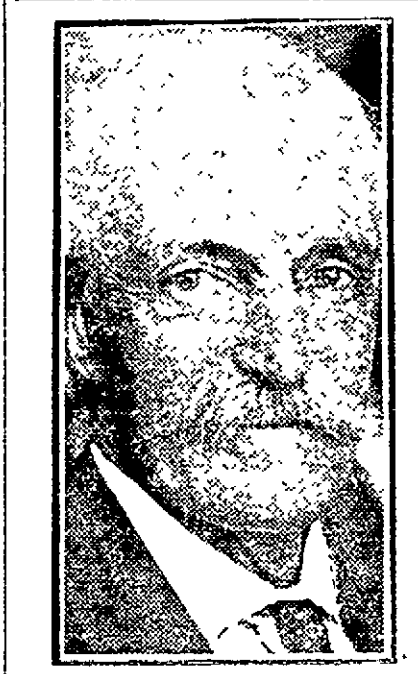

Two refueling and provisioning planes were keyed up to the hazardous task of keeping the record-seeking plane going.

TWO PREVIOUS TRIALS
Two previous attempts for distance and duration records had been made by Captain Smith and Lieutenant Richter last June 27, and 28. In the first attempt the airmen were forced down after five hours by burning out of a generator on their plane and on the second flight the aviators became lost in the fog after about 24 hours of flying and were forced to land.

Though they did not reach their set mark of a four day duration flight, the two officers broke speed records for 2,580 and 3,000 kilometers and demonstrated the practicability of refueling an air plane in mid air.

Governor Tells Leaders Strike Out Of Question

Coal Arbitrator

Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania has been commissioned by President Coolidge to communicate with both sides in the hard coal controversy in an attempt to settle the differences that threaten a strike.

Still Time For Agreement
Workers And Operators Agree To Lay Cause Of Trouble Before Umpire

By Associated Press
Harrisburg, Pa.—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania assembled leaders on each side in the anthracite controversy around his office table Monday and told them bluntly that the proposed suspension of mining Sept. 1 could not be allowed.

Settlement of the controversy between anthracite miners and operators "is possible and it must be done," Governor Pinchot said at the opening here of the conference called by him in an effort to avert suspension of operations Sept. 1.

Declaring the crisis now has been reached, he asserted "we must do in this eleventh hour what should have been done before."

REGARD RIGHTS OF ALL
"It can be done and must be done," he said. "There is still time. Let us use this time in an effective spirit of common counsel so that this common danger may pass, with due regard to the rights of all, and with a credit and honor to all concerned."

"The public has not forgotten, and I shall not forget, the high standards of the miners and operators. Each side represents a great and vital service to the public. Moreover, each side stands in the presence of a great and vitally important duty to the people at large."

"The public does not and cannot see with your eyes and appreciate with your experience the background and the details of the present controversy. But it knows the essential facts. I express a truth, none will deny when I say that the anthracite-using people of the United States are losing patience, and I ask you to consider that fact with care."

"The public interest demands that this controversy shall be settled, and that a suspension of mining shall be avoided. The thing is possible—and it must be done."

With the exception of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, all participants in the Atlantic City negotiations were here Monday. Philip Murray, vice-president of the union, was here in Mr. Lewis' absence with the three district presidents. The four members of the operators' policy committee were present.

Impassively the men gathered around his council table, listening to his words. They were Samuel D. Warriner, A. B. Jessup, A. W. Ingalls, and W. J. Richards of the operators' policy committee, and Philip Murray, vice president, and C. J. Golden, Rinaldo Cappellini, and Thomas Kennedy, district presidents of the United Mine Workers, whose orders are out for closing down the mines Sept. 1.

DEALT SEPARATELY
There was scarcely a sound to interrupt the governor as he read his address.

"In my opinion the wisest thing I can do is to deal separately with each side," he said. "To learn the basis for demands as fully as I can. I request you to give me these interviews."

"We'll be very glad to grant your request," Mr. Warriner responded at the close of the appeal.

"The miners will also," Mr. Murray said.

OFFICIALS CONFIDENT
Washington—Government officials Monday were watching with professed confidence in the outcome, the efforts of Governor Pinchot in his conference with miners and operators' representatives at Harrisburg to find a basis of settlement in their dispute that will avert the threatened shutdown of anthracite mines, Sept. 1.

Although the Pennsylvania executive, it was said, was proceeding with a free hand in the situation, officials here were keeping in close touch with the developments. The government not only had lent aid to the settlement effort by supplying Governor Pinchot with various data gathered by the federal fuel agencies, but is prepared, administration spokesmen say, to give moral support to stronger representation by the mediator if the force of figures yields no settlement.

Despite the absence of any sign of a last minute recession by either side in position on the demands presented by the miners, officials here still believed that the self-interest of the parties to the dispute alone would be sufficient motive to bring about a settlement.

ELECTIONS IN DUBLIN START STREET RIOTS

Motor Car Of Government Candidates Attacked By Crowds

By Associated Press
Dublin—A lively outbreak of rifle and machine gun fire occurred in Dublin early Monday. The shooting was not explained. Balloting in the Dail elections proceeded with national troops patrolling the streets.

A motor car carrying James Crowley and the Minister of Fisheries, Finian Lynch, both of whom are candidates of the government party for Kerry was attacked by a crowd while passing Linlath Sunday. Shots were fired and one young man was seriously injured.

Voting in the Dail elections began throughout the Irish Free State at 9 o'clock Monday with an electorate of more than 1,750,000 eligible to cast their ballots. Nearly 500,000 of this number are new voters, most of them being young people of both sexes.

PUBLIC HOLIDAY
The day is a public holiday and makes possible the closing of the polls at 7 o'clock.

Supporters of the government party have daily increased in confidence and it is now believed that this group will constitute the largest bloc of the new house. The Republicans rely on the new voters to improve the showing made by them in the last election when they took 36 seats.

The final pre-election pronouncement of the Republicans issued as a manifesto, bore the name of Eamon De Valera but is strongly suspected of having been the work of Mrs. E. Kine Children, who can read the Republican leader's mind as can no one else. Among other things the manifesto says:

"The world once more is looking on. Shall it be that this generation has turned renegade to the national faith shall be and outcome by disastrous submission of the princes and prelates to Henry II which brought us centuries of shame and sorrow?"

OIL PROBE ASKED BY GOVERNOR IN WEST

By Associated Press
Minneapolis—Attorneys General of the United States were asked Monday by Charles B. Griffith and George F. Short, attorneys general of Kansas and Oklahoma respectively, to start a nationwide investigation of the oil industry to determine "if the Standard Oil company is manipulating the gasoline market to put 40,000 mid-state producers out of business."

HORTONVILLE FAIR IN COOL GROVE OF HUGE PINE TREES

Splendid Entertainment Will Be Offered At Sixty-fourth
Exhibition

BY W. F. WINSEY

C. A. Schulz and L. A. Carroll, president and secretary, respectively, of the Outagamie County Agricultural society, announce that preparations have been completed by the society for the largest annual fair ever held in the "Great Public Center Meeting Place and Amusement Ground," in Hortonville, Wisconsin, on Aug. 29, 30 and 31.

If nothing were to be seen on the Hortonville fair grounds but the delightful grove and nothing heard but the music of the "whispering pines" that waved their lofty plumes—of nothing were to be seen and nothing heard on the fair grounds of Hortonville but these primeval specimens of the artistic handwork of nature that have escaped the destructive greed of man for dollars so long—it would pay the pleasure seeker and the busy man alike to pass an afternoon under those survivors of past grandeur and entertainers of the present generation.

But President Schulz and Secretary Carroll informed the writer that never before in the sixty-four years that the Hortonville fair has been entertaining the people of the cities, villages and rural districts of Outagamie county has there been a brighter prospect of a great display of choice farm and city products than at the present time. Then besides, they say, the fair this year will be a wonderland of acrobatic performance and tented side shows.

Sherbeck Bros., whose father with his troupe entertained the people of Outagamie county 40 years ago at the Hortonville fair has been booked and will be there with a troupe of eight experts, as will several other free attractions that have already been mentioned in the Post-Crescent.

The natural beauty of the fair grounds combined with the artificial attractions that may be drawn from one of the richest agricultural districts of the state of which Hortonville is the center, will exert a strong pull on people on fair day who are looking for entertainment and an opportunity to see and compare the choicest products of Outagamie-co.

BENT FENDERS AND BROKEN WHEELS IS WEEKEND CAR TOLL

Plenty Of Minor Accidents Enliven Automobile Driving
In City

Collisions were numerous over the weekend but, as far as could be learned, no persons were injured. There was, however, considerable damage to the automobiles involved.

At 11:30 Saturday Mrs. Alfred Stabe, 1211 Spencer-st., driving an automobile west on College ave., stopped suddenly to avoid bumping into a car that had stopped before her, and in so doing her car was hit in the rear by a Ford truck owned by Anton Single. Both rear fenders of the Stabe automobile, and both front fenders and the truss rod of the Single car were broken.

A collision occurred at 7:15 Saturday evening between the automobile of Carl Ullman, 1034 Richmond-st., and that of Paul Manthey, 768 Washington-st., at State-st. and College ave. The Ford into which Manthey was driving cast on College-ave to turn north on State-st., while the other driver was driving west on College-ave at the time. The right rear fender of the first car was bent, and the steering gear of the Manthey automobile was broken.

Backing her father's automobile from the north College-ave curb, between Oneida and Appleton-sts., at 9:15 Saturday evening, Miss Clara Lemke, 592 Commercial st., struck an east bound car of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company, breaking three windows of the street car and bending the left rear fender of the automobile.

Another collision occurred at 8:30 Sunday evening at Second-ave and Durkeest, when Mrs. W. Thyssen, Route 6, Appleton, drove her automobile into the machine owned by Louis Kaufman. She was approaching from the west on Second-ave, while Mr. Kaufman, coming from the west, was about to turn south. The rear right wheel of the Thyssen car

MORE PLAYGROUND APPARATUS NEEDED AT RURAL SCHOOLS

Superintendent Meating Tells School Board What Schools Need

What are the items of school equipment that make for a modern rural school? The essential points are enumerated by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, to the officers of the 132 school districts of Outagamie-co.

A number of suggestions were made for having the school in good condition for the opening of the fall term. The need of sufficient playground apparatus is stressed. The equipment recommended for Outagamie-co schools are a large soft baseball and a baseball bat with which both boys and girls can play, a tetter board; a sand box and a giant stride, and if possible a volleyball, or outdoor basketball. The giant stride, can be made cheaply by suspending six chains on an old wagon wheel hub.

He also recommends that grass and weeds on the school grounds be cut, that the school buildings have a thorough cleaning, that stove pipes be cleaned, that window shades be repaired, that outbuildings be placed in satisfactory condition. A drum of sweeping compound, a floor brush, a new map of Europe, pencil sharpener, chalk, erasers, wash basin or sink, a covered drinking tank or fountain, window and door screens, shelves, extra chairs, etc., are listed among the essentials. The use of soft coal is advised against. Wood should be burned where possible. The United States government prescribes a metal mail box for every school.

TRAVEL BOOKS IN BIG DEMAND HERE

Carpenters Stories On Strange Lands Are Fascinating Reading

The recent book "The Holy Land and Syria" by E. G. Carpenter was one of the most widely read books last week at the local library. In fact, Mr. Carpenter tells of his travels, which Joseph gave to his fathers and brothers after he was sold to the Ishmaelites and carried down into Egypt, and enters Palestine at Jaffa, the city of Jonah and Simon the Tanner. He crosses the plains of Sharon by rail and travels back and forth over the Holy Land from Beersheba to Dan Jerusalem and Bethlehem, Jericho and the Jordan. Places and Nazareth are among the places he lingered the longest. On the opposite side of the lake from Capernaum he takes the train for Damascus, whence crossing the Abana, he goes over the mountains of Lebanon to the ruins of Baalbek. Thence to the Mediterranean sea at Beirut and north to Smyrna and the ruined shrines of the Goddess Diana on the site of old Ephesus.

It is said that "Reading Carpenter is seeing the world" and the statement is as nearly true as it can be for the territory discussed in the books is so completely covered and so interestingly told that it is certainly next best to actually seeing. The Carpenter world series is a series of books that describe journeys aggregating more than three hundred thousand miles. They will form the only set of world travels ever written on the ground by a single author.

"Alaska, Our Northern Wonderland" also a book by Carpenter was the other non-fiction book popular last week. They rank among the best circulators at the local library and probably will remain as such because of their genuine appeal to their readers.

The three fiction numbers which appealed to Appleton readers last week were "Valiant Dust," by Gerould, "1492" by Johnston, and "Stekfals" by Cobb. The book which has circulated the least of the three is "Valiant Dust."

In the children's department of the library the "Little Boy Blue" series were in demand with the girls while the boys called for "Tom Sawyer" by Twain. Mark Twain is a favorite with the youngsters and nine times out of ten his books are among those in greatest demand in the children's library.

Be Careful Of What You Eat If You Want Good Teeth

Dentists Here Warn That "Too Good Living" Makes Teeth Unhealthy

If you hate the dentist because of the things he inflicts upon you, take care of your teeth by refusing to eat most of the things of which you are fond. Or if you are fond of the drilling which is the dentist's chief method of making you repent for your sins, hunt up all the starchy and acid foods you can find and eat as much of them at each meal as you can decently devour.

The fine, rich and expensive foods which take so much time to prepare but which everyone thinks must be served are among the most injurious to the teeth. Most food consumed today is too "refined" said one local dentist, the coarse foods eaten by our grandfathers when they lived as pioneers were the things which made them strong and enabled them to live long, healthy lives.

No one advocates a return to the wilderness where it was impossible to prepare fancy dishes and where one lived on fish, game and coarse bread, or went hungry, but diet specialists say it is a wonder people can live on modern rations.

The interesting part of it all is that half the trouble the average person has with his teeth can be traced right back to the food he has been brought up on. The cure works both ways, the food which is good for general health is needed for the teeth and the foods dentists advocate if one is to preserve his teeth will be just the things recommended by the doctor. The list of "don'ts" offered by the local dentists is decidedly interesting for it rather upsets some of the ideas about proper food which are held by many people.

Much stress is being laid on vitamins which are present in milk, greens, such as lettuce, endive and spinach, fresh fruits and vegetables. These contain the mineral salts that are necessary but their influence is either destroyed or greatly modified by the ordinary continued cooking to which most of them are subjected. As the vitamin contents of foods should be considered first of all, according to several local dentists, it is advised that as many raw vegetables and fruits should be eaten as possible.

Raw carrots, cabbage, tomatoes, onions and even potatoes are most wholesome and uncooked sauerkraut is said to be an excellent dish. The latter may be prepared in various ways with such fruits as pineapple, lemon and orange to make an exceptionally good dish.

As teeth need minerals, such as phosphorus and iron, it is necessary to eat such foods. If phosphorus is not supplied in foods, it will be taken from the teeth and the process of destruction to the teeth has commenced. The foods containing these necessary elements are whole wheats, raisins, figs, legumes, cheese, eggs, fish, peanuts, oatmeal and poultry. All sorts of leafy tops of vegetables, greens, grains, figs, raisins and dates are rich in iron.

Some of the foods which are vitamin dead are refined sugar, rice, farina, pearl barley and white breads.

One of the things most injurious to the teeth is the eating of two starchy foods at one meal. All the dentists agree that white-bread and potatoes should never be eaten at the same meal.

KAUKAUNA'S HOMECOMING WEEK

Kaukauna this week is extending a welcoming hand to old friends and to strangers who are flocking to its gates to participate in the homecoming and to witness the pageant which will portray the historical "high spots" of the Lion of the Fox and of the Fox river valley. From all parts of the country "old timers" are returning to the scenes of their youth to renew old friendships and to again visit the places hallowed by the associations of other years.

An ambitious program like that attempted by Kaukauna this week is impossible without the closest kind of friendly cooperation. There must be a unity of purpose and a spirit of working together to make so large a community event a success. There must be a large civic pride that will induce men and women to give so largely of their time and means for a community venture.

Kaukauna has shown all of this. If there ever were sectional lines in Kaukauna they have been obliterated by the common desire to make homecoming week a real welcome to former residents who are coming home for a visit, and to strangers who are attracted to the little city with the large ideals.

The historical pageant, which will be given on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, is a large undertaking. Upwards of 300 persons are in the cast and they have worked willingly and diligently for its success. This close association in rehearsals has been a harmonizer. Strangers have become acquainted with each other, friends have found new things in common and foes, seeing the good in each other, have dropped their animosities.

Kaukauna's homecoming week and historical pageant is the forerunner of a new civic consciousness in the Electric City. Once this spirit of cooperation takes hold of a community, once the people learn that they can work together, there is no telling what can and will be accomplished. Kaukauna, in reviewing the glories of its past, is building for greater things in the future.

SEVERSON AND BLAINE

Senator Severson apparently is not going to abandon his demand on Governor Blaine for an investigation of conditions at the capitol, which are alleged to have been scandalous at the time the legislature was in session. We think Mr. Severson's persistence is to be commended.

Mr. Blaine's attitude toward the charges which reflect upon his administration has been, it seems to us, evasive. When he asked that Mr. Severson go to Madison and submit to him (the governor) his evidence of wrong doing and possibly of misfeasance of office on the part of some politicians in the capitol building, he asked the impossible. Mr. Severson would have been playing into his hands by falling for such a proposal and he is wise enough to know that as politics is played in Wisconsin it is a relentless game and one in which no advantages can be safely thrown away.

Senator Severson, in his latest communication to Governor Blaine, cannot fail to impress the public with the fact that an honest effort to secure a legislative investigation was made by those who have brought to attention the alleged scandal. At least four attempts were made, one of which represented a proposal indorsed by a senate committee composed of all the chairmen of all the committees in body. Mr. Blaine is evidently not sincere when he accuses Mr. Severson of being virtually the only person who has sought an investigation and who places any stock in the stories of official depravity at Madison. We think it is more the part of Governor Blaine to ask for and obtain in some manner a satisfactory investigation of the charges, than it is to merely sit back and demand proof. He and his administration are chiefly concerned. The question is whether he really has the courage to face an investigation.

THE ISSUE IN THE COAL CONTROVERSY

The one principle that must one day be upheld, and which at this moment is vital in the anthracite controversy, is that capital and labor producing a public necessity shall continue operations and settle their differences by arbitration. Either party which defies this principle defies the public, on which it imposes hardship and expense.

As has been frequently and emphatically said, capital and labor receive full justice in the opportunity to agree by negotiation and mediation. When these measures fail, they are obligated to accept judgment by arbitration. It is necessary to make those who are engaged in the coal industry appreciate the rights of the public.

Hard coal operators contend their men, with average common labor earnings of $1,439 and skilled labor earnings of $2,170 in the test year of 1921 are very much better paid than soft coal miners and in fact should be taking some decrease in view of post-war deflation. They refuse point blank to increase the existing high wages—paid for, eventually, of course, by coal consumers who are themselves living on wage scales considerably reduced since the war.

But they are ready, they say, to submit the question to arbitration. The miners are not. If arbitration is not established the same public that pays the high coal wages and high coal profits will be expected to sit idly by and suffer the shutting off of its hard coal supply with the consequent disruption of industry and commercial loss. The housewife will be expected to buy soft coal and wash the curtains. The states will be setting up coal administrations again, dealers with supplies on hand and big profits ahead will be the subject of investigation, and all the foolish and costly rigmarole—from the public standpoint of another strike will be upon the nation.

All this will happen next Saturday unless the coal commission manages some new scheme of persuasion or the president of the United States uses a big stick. The strike starting at that time will settle nothing on earth except that one side is stronger than the other. It will not settle whether the demands of the winner are justified by existing wage scales. It will not settle whether the resultant figure is right from a public standpoint or an industrial standpoint. Arbitration would settle these things, and make an award based as nearly as men can base it upon justice.

We cannot picture Calvin Coolidge forcing agreement as Theodore Roosevelt did in 1902, with a heavy fist banging a table. But he can be strong in his own way. He has all the power behind him that Roosevelt had; and the country, in view of an episode in his record, can hardly be blamed for expecting something to the point from the executive office in case the two selfish interests in the hard coal dispute refuse to arbitrate and determine to make the public pay the price of their stubbornness.

And come what will or come what may,
He "follows through" and "goes the route,"

He holds to it with courage stout.

THE AUDITORY NERVE

The most important nerves of the body are 12 pairs of cranial nerves, which arise directly from the brain and do not pass through the spine but are linked up directly with the muscles and organs they supply. Some of these cranial nerves supply organs of special sense—vision, taste, hearing, etc., and some supply vital organs—heart, lungs, digestive organs, kidneys, etc. The cranial nerves which supply these organs in the trunk pass down through the soft tissues of the neck with the blood vessels, windpipe and gullet. This is going into anatomy with a vengeance, but nowadays so many people know so many things which ain't so about anatomy, physiology and pathology, that it is only fair to remind them occasionally that there are many, many important nerves which can't possibly get plucked no matter how insecure one's spine may be.

The eighth pair of cranial nerves are the auditory nerves. The auditory nerve, scalled, is practically two nerves, one part having nothing to do with hearing but carrying sensory impulses from the gyroscope (the semicircular canals), where varying pressure with movements and changes of position of the head arouse impulses which constitute the special sense of equilibrium; the other part of the nerve conveys sound impulses. Both parts are in the same sheath; both supply the internal or business part of the ear, so that troubles affecting one part are likely to involve the other. Two sets of symptoms therefore arise in cases of internal ear disease. The irritation of the auditory part of the nerve causes various head noises; friction of the part having to do with equilibrium causes vertigo, dizziness, seasickness, car sickness and the like. If the irritation continues until destruction of the nerve occurs, then deafness follows, and with the onset of the deafness the head noises or dizziness probably ceases. Certain persons who are totally deaf never become seasick and cannot be made dizzy by whirling.

The prolific causes of total deafness and deaf mutism are meningitis and syphilis, the lesion extending outward along the nerve from the brain, and scarlet fever, in this case the inflammation extending in the opposite direction from the throat and middle ear. In every case the nature of the trouble is neuritis. Obviously no special treatment would be for every case of auditory neuritis. Influenza, typhoid fever and mumps are occasionally complicated by auditory neuritis. The internal ear may be injured by the head falling leading to a destructive auditory neuritis and total one-sided deafness after years of tinnitus (head noise).

Sudden attacks of vertigo of such severity that the victim perhaps falls to the floor and momentarily loses consciousness as though struck on the head, accompanied by nausea or vomiting in some cases, are known as Meniere's disease and are caused by hemorrhage into the labyrinth of the internal ear apparatus. This hemorrhage may occur in cases of hardening of the arteries, in advanced syphilis, and sometimes without discoverable cause.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

but I suppose I have my chances with all sorts of diseases in my work (laundry work).

—J. A. A.
Answer—On the contrary, you take no chances in laundry work. Let me quote from a report by the Massachusetts State Board of Health on the sanitary conditions involved in laundry work: "The laundry business is not uncommonly regarded as one attended by more or less danger of contracting infective disease, because of the handling of the bed linen and body linen of sick persons, but the returns secured in this investigation do not support this assumption. The use of soap, boiling and the chlorine compounds (all good disinfectants) seems to take care of any disease germs which may possibly come to the laundry in the soiled clothing of sick persons. At any rate laundry workers enjoy a health status rather better than the average."

—Dates and Prunes
Are dates, figs, raisins and prunes fattening? Do all of them contain acids? Do they furnish the blood iron? Please give some information regarding these fruits. I am very fond of dates.—Mrs. M.
Answer—Dates and figs have about the same food value as white flour—around 1600 calories per pound. Prunes have slightly lower food value. Raisins and prunes each have about 1400 calories in the pound. All contain organic acids which are wholesome food, and which tend to oppose acids in the system. Prunes contain as much iron as egg, nearly as much as beef, about half as much as peas, dried beans or spinach. The other fruits named are poorer in iron. Prunes and figs are valuable in addition as laxative foods.

AN OLD MAXIM SILENCED

"Twas the early bird that caught the worm;

The old cat caught the bird;

A brickbat caught old Thomas Cat—

This proverb is absurd.

It seems the worm, the bird, the cat,

All got it in the neck.

No early bird-stuff, folks, for me—

I stay in bed, by huck!

MRS. G. W.

In Other Words—

Up with the bird
And down with the sun
And you're gonna miss
A lotta fun.

No, friend Grass Hopper, we didn't mean to insult the farmers when we referred to Magnus Johnson as a "dirt" farmer.

Rear Rollo! I rise to lay the following propositions before the court:
1. Short skirts on a small girl make a girl look smaller.
2. Short skirts on a tall girl make a girl look taller.
3. Short skirts on any girl, smaller or taller, make the men look a dog-gone sight longer.

I thank you.

LEMUEL.

QUICK, THE NEEDLE, WATSON!

Speaking of fish stories—a railroader from Antigo tells this one.

He went fishing in one of the numerous small lakes above Antigo.

dropped in his line and immediately made a strike. An enormous

"muskie" who proceeded to tow the fisherman and boat about the lake.

This continued for some hours while all the efforts to land the catch failed.

Then the fish headed into a small creek running out of the lake. The fisherman jumped from his boat and proceeded to dam the creek mouth thereby drying the creek and leaving his fish high and dry.

He tried to haul his fish up from the creek bed but found him too heavy, so he secured the services of a farmer who hauled out the big fellow with his team of horses.

They then set about to discover what caused the great weight of the fish and upon prying open its mouth found 30 feet of log chain in a hollow tooth. As proof of the catch the log chain can be seen hanging from a tree on the banks of the creek.

Send me the reel.

SHE CERTAINLY PICKED A TOUGH COOKY FOR THE TEST

Who told the Beaver how to build a dam?

Selecting clothes for men is an inborn art
—at least, so we are told.

Blushingly then, we recite here for your information the following happening:

After he had penciled down our order for the Fall suits that are here today the Campus Togs representative turned back in his order book and showed us that we had chosen the identical same patterns and models as did a leading Chicago clothing whom it is rumored pays his buyer $25,000 a year for knowing the right from the left.

This story stands—and the Fall suits are here today to back it up.

Insulin Is Real
Diabetes Help

Insulin, the new patent preparation for the treatment of diabetes, is the discovery, if such it may be called, of Dr. Fred G. Banting of Toronto, Canada.

"Many efforts have been made during the past 20 years to carry the results of experiments in the use of pancreas extracts into the field of therapeutics. No direct success was attained as the extracts contained some protein matter which rendered hypodermic administration unsafe.

Dr. Banting is the first to arrive at a real logical conclusion. Quite a large number of patients have been under successful treatment during the past six months.

The idea that a properly prepared extract of the pancreas, freed of its digestive action, would be of great benefit in the treatment of diabetes was confirmed. It was experimentally tested in the laboratory and found to show surprising results. First with animals, then with great caution, on real patients.

Insulin seems to have the power of slowing the diabetic organism to burn sugar, thus causing sugar in the urine to disappear and blood sugar to drop to normal.

It has been given to patients to bring them out of diabetic coma, long enough to overcome serious infections. Surgical operations, under its use, may be performed on the severest cases of diabetes. Best of all, it is claimed that it will permit development and growth in children and young adults, where formerly there was no hope.

Insulin is given to the patient, hypodermically, three times a day before meals. It cannot be used without very careful diet control and must be administered by a physician.
To the sufferer from diabetes this new treatment—it is not yet termed a cure—comes as a welcome boon, almost a call to new life and action.

410,000 LICENSES GRANTED IN STATE

Number of Automobiles Registered in Wisconsin Breaks All Records

Milwaukee—All records for licensing of automobiles in Wisconsin have been broken this year, reports from Madison show. Over 410,000 machines have been licensed by the secretary of state's office to date, with the indications that the mark will reach 450,000 before the end of the year.

In 1922, the total for the year reached 382,542 in the state.

Wisconsin has more motor vehicles than France. Or to make it more interesting, there are more motor vehicles in Wisconsin than there are countries in Germany, Italy, Sweden, Japan, China, Russia, the Netherlands and Greece. These eight countries have 381,593 automobiles, the department of commerce census shows.

Although the department has no figures for cities, there are more automobiles in Milwaukee, with 65,000 than the 45,000 in all Spain, certainly more motor vehicles on Milwaukee's Gold Coast than the 294 in the geographical division known as the gold coast; more motor vehicles in Madison and Dane county than the 13,000 in all Russia, almost as many motor vehicles in Green Bay and Brown county than the 15,203 in all Austria, and more motor vehicles in La Crosse and Le Crosse county than the 10,279 in all Japan.

The total number of automobiles in the entire world is estimated at 15,515,526. Of these 12,597,375 are in the United States.

Here is how some of the nations compare with the 410,000 motor vehicles in Wisconsin: France, 341,871; Germany, 166,938; Austria, 152,031; Mexico, 23,050; Poland, 5,509; Spain, 45,000; Netherlands, 47,740; Gold Coast, 294; Russia, 13,000; Canada, 519,332; Italy, 86,200; Australia, 115,998; Argentina, 89,600; Belgium, 55,409; China, 7,112; Greece, 5,880; Japan, 10,279; Sweden, 48,740; United Kingdom, 83,640; Denmark, 35,651; Cuba, 45,059.

Liberia is the nearest "autoless" of any country, with only seventeen cars.

New Legion Hall Will Be Presented To Post By Mayor Raught Tonight

TOURISTS FLOCK TO LAST REFUGE OF INDIAN CHIEF

Wisconsin Heights, Black Hawk's Stronghold, To Be Dedicated Sept. 3

Madison — Wisconsin Heights, the scene of the last stand of Black Hawk and his warriors against white encroachment, is destined to become a tourist show place with elaborate ceremonies at the dedication of a marker on the site on Sept. 3.

The dedication ceremonies will be conducted by the John Bell chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Wisconsin Historical society and the Wisconsin Archeological society.

Speakers will be Mrs. C. A. Harper, Louise Phelps Kellogg, Gov. John J. Blaine, Mrs. G. S. Parker, Alfred L. Taylor, Supt. Joseph Schafer and Samuel Bowman Harper.

"The causes leading up to the battle of Wisconsin Heights were numerous," says H. E. Cole. "On the Rock river, near its confluence with the Mississippi, was the Sac village, the Indians of which were more in sympathy with the British than with the Americans at that time. Treaties had been signed by the Indians transferring to the whites their common lands but when the time came for them to give up their holdings the red men declared their chiefs had no authority to sign away the territory and refused to leave. As early as 1823 squatters enraged Chief Black Hawk and his people by burning their lodges, destroying their crops, and insulting their squaws, while the chief and his braves were absent on the hunt.

"Black Hawk was advised to seek a village site beyond the Mississippi to avoid the advancing tide of settlement, but the warrior was obstinate and prepared to fight for his lands. A crisis was reached in 1830 when pioneers played over an Indian cemetery pre-empted a village site and took possession of the planting grounds of the red men. Black Hawk, after consulting with the British agent, threatened the squatters with force, but a military demonstration so frightened the Indians that they gave up the idea of fighting and fled across the Mississippi. On April 6, 1832, Black Hawk with about 500 warriors, mostly Sac Indians, crossed into Illinois, creating wild excitement in the settlements there and in Wisconsin. Soon 1,500 volunteers, some mounted and some on foot, were on the march."

Mr. Cole then tells of Black Hawk's forces ambushing the American troops, but gradually being pursued to a nameless creek at Wisconsin Heights where the Indians made a stand, but were routed.

Some of the Black Hawk warriors attempted to escape down the river, but with whites far outnumbering the Indians Black Hawk's army was practically annihilated.

Before the war Great Britain owned nearly 44.5 per cent of the world's total iron and steel tonnage, but now this has decreased to less than 33 per cent.

BEGIN ERECTING PENS FOR SILVER FOX FARM

Watertown, Wis. — Fencing for the Watertown silver black fox farm has arrived and is now being erected on the farm located near the east city limits.

Allan Blefeld of this city, who has been in Watertown studying the culture of the silver black foxes and has been made manager of the Watertown farm, is in charge of the erection of the pens here.

Thirty pens are to be erected this year under a plan by which 100 pens will be eventually built. A tower will be erected in a central location and will be three stories in height. The first story will be used for cooking the balanced ration which is fed to the foxes, the second floor will consist of an office and sleeping room, and the third floor will consist of a lookout tower from which trouble in any of the pens can be seen easily in the daytime and with the aid of a searchlight at night.

There will be a good crop of fruit on most of the trees in the county and a fair yield will be in evidence in spite of the bad effect of the drought. Wealthies should be in evidence for harvesting in the next two or three weeks. The greenings and other winter varieties will not be ready for marketing until late.

The Isle of Pines, despite its name specializes on grape fruit production.

LONG DROUTH INJURED COUNTY APPLE CROP

There will be a good crop of apples in Outagamie-co this year, although when the actual harvest comes, the yield will not be up to expectations, it is said.

The dry spell ripened the late apples earlier than usual, with the result they are smaller. While the big crop of early apples that matured before the dry spell came, is creating the general impression that the apple crop will be large, it is believed the late yield will fall short of anticipations.

There is a good set of fruit on most of the trees in the county and a fair yield will be in evidence in spite of the bad effect of the drought. Wealthies should be in evidence for harvesting in the next two or three weeks. The greenings and other winter varieties will not be ready for marketing until late.

Rate Reductions Instead of Dividends

The Milwaukee Road in the year 1922 earned forty-six million dollars more than in 1916, but its payrolls, supplies, other operating expenses and taxes cost sixty million dollars more than in 1916.

The average freight charge on the Milwaukee Road in 1921 was 70% higher than the 1916 average; last year it was only 47% higher than in 1916; and the average now is less than 40% above 1916.

When you hear anyone complain because he is paying 40% or 50% more per ton or per bushel for freight charges than he did 5 or 6 years ago, remind him that it is costing the railroad twice as much to haul that ton or that bushel as it did before the war.

It is common business practice to charge enough for any product to pay cost of production, plus a profit.

The Milwaukee and other railroads, have not been able to do this in recent years.

This means that the railroad is carrying more than half the burden of increased expenses, and its patrons are being benefited to that extent. This has been made possible only by the sacrifice of dividends by its 22,000 stockholders and the postponement of expenditures for new and improved facilities needed for public service.

Lay Cornerstone Of Armory At Clintonville Labor Day

GOVERNOR J. J. Blaine, Adjutant Gen. Ralph Immell and a number of other prominent state and National Guard officers will attend the ceremonies connected with laying the cornerstone of the new armory in Clintonville on the afternoon and evening of Labor day, Sept. 3.

The cornerstone will be laid in the afternoon following the military parade in which guardsmen from all over the state will take part. At 8:30 a banquet will take place in the armory at which prominent state officials and guardsmen will speak. This will be followed by a big dance, Lieut. Dale Wyllis, Lieut. Norman Hanson and Captain C. M. Griswold, have charge of the arrangements.

The Clintonville armory, probably one of the last of its kind to be built for many years because of the cut in National Guard appropriations by the legislature, is attracting attention throughout the state.

The building is 72 by 147 feet with a high basement under the entire structure. The drill hall or auditorium is 70 by 80 feet, with a ceiling 18 feet from floor. A large stage and two commodious dressing rooms leading from it make a splendid place to hold public entertainments.

The front of the building is 72 by 40 feet, is two stories above the basement. Each floor is divided into large rooms for various purposes such as check rooms, locker rooms, storage rooms, officers quarters and club rooms, etc.

Toilets, shower baths, dressing rooms, two kitchens, a large dining room, shooting gallery, besides the boiler room and storage rooms, are in the basement.

I SPIED TODAY

GUM SLEUTHS

On entering the public library Saturday noon I noticed five or six small girls sitting under a table in the adults' reading room. They appeared to be playing a game, but after I watched them a short while I saw that they were equipped with knives and were busily engaged in removing gum from the tables. They worked so quietly that they were unobserved by the librarian and when I left the library they had about half a pound of gum piled up on a newspaper. I cannot imagine what they intended to do with the accumulation as they didn't appear to be children who would be forced to get gum in this manner. E. M.

IN SEARCH OF BEAUTY

Friday as the sun peeped out from behind the clouds, I spied three girls in bathing suits sitting on the beach. It was difficult to tell to what race they belong due to nature's own complexion clay, which they had applied. I spied them later with red irritated faces and they will tell you that all clay does not have magic elements. L. W.

NOT NAMED LOGICALLY

Friday afternoon at Union and Alton-sts I saw a man looking as tho he were lost. I had a hunch he was looking for a street, so I said: "What are you looking for, sir?" "Why I've looked all around Lawrence college for Lawrence court. I can't find a name of any street and can't find anyone at home and—" He was quite out of patience since he had a truckload to deliver from a Neenah firm. I laughed and said I was surprised that any one should look for Lawrence Court around

"Hyde! Where are you?"
"Here. Where are you?"
"In the proverbial soup," returned Pennington, dropping from a bough. "They've split company—and got clean away with it." He squatted on the ground at the planter's feet. "Shall I tell you what, Hyde? There's something I don't quite understand about all this. Lal-Ho could have poisoned us both at dinner, if he'd wanted."

Hyde glanced up from filling his briar. "Of course he could. He cooked the stuff. What then?"
"Then why all that elaborate paraphernalia of the Yellow Seven and the knife and knockin' out of the lamp?" He laughed aloud. "Hyde, old son, we've been duped!"

"Eh?"
"We were meant to follow them." The planter was struggling with a match.

"Pity you couldn't have thought all this out before," he grumbled. "Freckles, as the tobacco caught, his head came slowly round until his puzzled eyes fell upon those of his companion. 'Why do you suppose they wanted to get us out of the way?'"

Chinese Pennington rose wearily. "I don't know," he admitted. "but I've a queer feeling in my bones that the sooner we're back again—the better."

Hyde, glancing at his watch, was amazed to discover that it was close upon one o'clock. He turned to Pennington.

"There's a shorter cut, if we bear to the right. We should strike the railway in under half-an-hour."

Twenty yards from the boundary wire, a man on a pony almost rode them down. Both men stepped hastily from the track and the newcomer, pulling up abruptly, slid to the ground and confronted them. It was Bateson, his curly, iron-colored hair standing almost on end.

"Is that you, Hyde?" he cried hoarsely.

"You can make yourself easy on that score," the manager assured him.

Pennington, an uncomfortable sensation passing down his spine, intervened.

He dropped a heavy hand on to Bateson's shoulder.

"What's wrong?" he demanded. The assistant swallowed something in his throat.

"It's Dora. She's disappeared!"

"Disappeared?" It was Hyde who spoke. "But, man alive!"

A glance from Pennington checked further utterance.

"When did she go out?" he said, rolling a cigaret, his eyes fixed on Bateson all the while.

"About ten. I was busy on the veranda with a couple of mandors, figuring out some work I wanted to get through tomorrow. I gathered that she was going to see you. She carried a small parcel in her hand and I remember expressing curiosity as to its contents. She told me it was something you had asked for."

Pennington started.

"Something I had asked for," he echoed incredulously, and then his face dropped. "What?"

Bateson appeared to reflect. "It was only a small thing," he said. "and I couldn't see it very clearly. It looked to me like a fan."

Pennington caught Hyde's arm and held it tightly.

"Don't jump at conclusions," he whispered reassuringly, seeing that the other had gone deathly white. "Have you been to Hyde's bungalow?"

"Yes. I've only just come from there. There was a watchman on duty outside. Dora had been there, had waited for about an hour—and had gone out on foot. That's what I can't make out. I found her pony tethered where she had left it. The watchman did not think it his place to question her. The moon was well up when she left, and he was under the impression she was looking for someone she had lost. It's a queer business altogether," he added helplessly.

"The watchman told me she had both arms outstretched in front of her, and that she chose a path of her own between the trees."

kidnaped by the Yellow Seven and that there's no sleep for any of us until we get her back. You found nothing on the path, nothing that could be of assistance?"

Bateson shook his head. He dived a hand into a side pocket and produced a crumpled mass of cane and cloth.

"Nothing at all—except this. I was partly imbedded in the soil and I clung to it in sheer desperation."

Pennington's hand shot out and took it from him. He spread it out on the saddle of the assistant's pony that stood quietly grazing. Hyde peered over his shoulder.

"What is it?" he inquired huskily. "I can't answer you yet I haven't a light—on anything. Strike a light, one of you."

"I can't see you what's on it," jerked out Bateson suddenly. "It's a Japanese fan—the thing, I imagine, that Dora was bringing to you. There's a photograph on it—of Island N. That's all."

Pennington gave a wild cry. "Hyde," he shouted, "muster every watchman you've got; send out an urgent S. O. S. to your assistants. Don't trust a soul that you have not the utmost confidence in or we're lost. There's a score of native fishermen at the water's edge. Commandeer their canoes and get across to the island as soon as you can. Then take cover. As soon as you hear me fire, come. Is that quite clear?"

The planter reached out for the reins of Bateson's pony.

"Perfectly. What about you? How are you going to get across?"

"That's my affair. But when you come, don't look for Chinese Pennington. Search around for 'He Who Sees in the Dark,' the Chinaman with the scared face who I think you have already met."

He grinned broadly—and was gone.

The oil lamp flared up suddenly and Dora Bateson, crouching in a corner of the hut, saw the ponderous form of Chai-Hung creeping through the narrow aperture. He rose presently to his feet and sat heavily upon a black-wood stool that was the only piece of furniture of which the hotel boasted.

"Good evening, Mrs. Bateson," he began in a grating voice. "You are wondering no doubt why I have brought you here, and what I am going to do with you?"

"I'm not the least bit afraid of you, Mr. Chai-Hung," retorted the girl steadily. She shifted into a more comfortable position on the rotting boards and, looking upward, caught a glimpse of a starlit heaven through a spot in the roof where the steps had fallen away.

Dora Bateson was afraid of shadows, but the sustenance held no terrors for her. The harsh voice of the notorious bandit, the trick he had of contracting his pupils until they became like points of fire—inspired her with a certain, inexplicable fear; but she was by no means afraid of Chai-Hung himself.

"How did you get me here?" he demanded presently.

Chai-Hung smiled blandly. "It was exceedingly simple, Mrs. Bateson. If you are able to remember anything, you will admit that you started out apparently of your own accord. That is what we term 'The Fan Trick.'"

Dora's brow wrinkled. "The Fan Trick?" Her eyes sparkled with the light of sudden knowledge. "Then I am on Island N?" she exclaimed. "Aren't you a trifle unwise, Mr. Chai-Hung, in selecting a hiding-place so near to the mainland?"

Chai-Hung positively beamed. "Not in the least, my dear lady. Of all my enemies, there is only one that I have any cause to fear. They call him 'He Who Sees in the Dark,' but you would recognize him more readily under his real name—Chinese Pennington!"

He paused to observe the effect of his words, but the ally, Pennington hounded me from this island, controlled by features admirably designed to drive me, as he still persists in believing, into the backwoods. He succeeded in one respect. He made it necessary for me to resort to strange expedients to obtain money. That is precisely why you are here tonight, Mrs. Bateson."

He gazed at her through half-closed lids.

"I shall send a messenger to your husband—for money," replied Chai-Hung between his teeth. "If the messenger does not return, I shall send another and still another—for money. Senders are cheap and the loss of the Yellow Seven are sealed. I shall ask for ten thousand dollars—one for each of your beautiful fingers. But with each further messenger I shall send a finger."

He gazed at her through half-closed lids.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR HUNTING LICENSES

Only Hungarian Partridges May Be Shot September 27, Hantschel Advises

Now comes the yearly scramble for hunting licenses. Since the announcement a few days ago of the arrival of this season's supply of licenses, John E. Hantschel, county clerk, has already issued 50 licenses. He had no report on how many licenses were sold by firms to whom he had furnished books.

A number of licenses were applied for with the understanding that the partridge season will be open on Sept. 7. This refers only to Hungarian partridges and they may be shot only in Jefferson and Waukesha cos., according to Mr. Hantschel. The season for partridges and spruce hens will be open on Oct. 4 in all counties except Calumet, Winnebago and Manitowish.

The season for wild geese, brant, wild duck, mudhen, plover, snipe, rail and rice hen opens Sept. 16. Prairie chickens and grouse may be hunted after Sept. 20. The muskrat, skunk and squirrel seasons open Oct. 15. The rabbit season in this locality opens Oct. 1. The mink season is open on Nov. 1, and the deer season is from Nov. 13 to Nov. 22 inclusive.

NEW SELECTIONS GAIN IN DEMAND

Four pieces of sheet music were equally popular last week at the local music stores among Appleton patrons. They were "I Never Miss the Sunshine," "Anabelle," "Dreamy Melody" and "Oh, Harold." Although "Dreamy Melody" is an old tune, it has been popular since its arrival. There is not much variation in demand for it. "I Never Miss the Sunshine" is the newest of the four numbers and is considered an especially good one by orchestras. Although "Barney Google" is still selling and is still heard on the street it has lost most of its popularity. It place is being taken by other and newer selections.

The five numbers in greatest demand last week in the four stores handling sheet music were:

Carroll's Music Shop: Anabelle, Oh, Harold, I Never Miss the Sunshine, Barney Google, Dreamy Melody.

Meyer-Seeger Music Co: Ritzl Mitzl, Dreamy Melody, In Fair Hawaii, Hey, Want Any Codfish, Dirty Hands, Dirty Face.

Long: Zuehlke: My Sweetie Went Away, In a Tent, Gulf Coast Blues, Stella, Oh, Harold.

Miss S. E. Anderson: Anabelle, I Never Miss the Sunshine, Dreamy Melody, Clouds Have Vanished, Florentine Nights.

NO OUTSTANDING FEATURE RECORD

Variety Of Phonograph Selections Went Big Here Last Week

Last week an unusual variety of phonograph record numbers were in demand at the local music stores. Since the advent of "Barney Google" and "Yes, We Have No Bananas" no new piece has been considered the hit but rather many selections have been popular. The best numbers last week were "Stella," "Oh, Harold," "My Sweetie Went Away," and "Waltin' for the Evenin' Mail." Although record sales have been good through the summer months it is probable there will be an especial demand for them again in a few weeks when cooler weather starts and social functions are more conspicuous. The "Spinning Song" by Paderewski was a big seller last week at both Victor stores. Other classical numbers which were popular were mostly vocal selections.

The five best sellers in each kind of record at the local music stores were the following:

Victor: Oh, Harold, Anabelle, I Never Miss the Sunshine, Barney Google, Spinning Song (Paderewski).

Columbia: Morning Will Come, Stella, Jenny, Barney Google, Norwegian Echo Song (Machete).

Edison: My Sweetie Went Away, Crying for You, When June Comes Along, We Two, Country Gardens (Bill).

Okel: Long Lost Mamma, When You are Near, In a Tent, Eddy Steady, Waiting for the Evenin' Mail.

Brunswick: Little Boy Blues, Stella, Now That I Need You You're Gone, Don't Cry Swannee, Forza Del Destino (Danise).

"CHILDREN OF DUST" TERMED MASTERPIECE

Reflecting life as it really is, the First National Picture, "Children of Dust," which is at the Elite Theatre this week, is a masterpiece. It is a production of which Frank Borzage, its director, may well be proud. Not since "Humoresque," which this brilliant man also created, has there been a picture so true to life and devoid of artificiality.

To sit through the incidents in Terwilliger's romance with Helen is to live his life as he lived it, with all its sunshine and sorrows. In a way typical only of Borzage, the story is told of Terwilliger's sacrifice for the girl he loves; of his rival. To tell the plot is to take away half of the pleasure one derives in living Terwilliger's adventures. Unusual in theme, it is handled in an absorbingly interesting manner—in marked contrast to the ordinary run of pictures with their sham and "hokum." It is an epic of real dramatic emotion heretofore unreached are attained by John Walker, Pauline Garon and Lloyd Hughes, all of whom are perfectly cast. Bert Woodruff adds new laurels to his fame as a character actor in his role as Old Archer. Frankie Lee, Josephine Adair and Newton Hall do admirable work in portraying the principal characters as children. All in all, a picture of absorbing clean entertainment is in store for patrons of the Elite Theatre this week.

SUNDAY'S RESULTS: Sheboygan at Neenah-Menasha 2. Appleton 10; Oshkosh 2. Kaukauna 20; Fond du Lac 12. Green Bay 4; Marinette-Menominee 2.

The Papermakers slugged themselves into first place in the Wisconsin State League Sunday afternoon when they walloped Oshkosh, 10 to 2, at Brandt park. A seventh inning rally which chased pitcher Blackburn to the ditch, netted eight runs and equal number of hits.

It was a tight ball game up to the seventh inning. Blackburn was hit freely enough but, with light in the pitcher and was accorded great respect. Lathrop also was pitching great ball, holding the Indians to six safe blows, one of which was a triple by Wilson.

Blackburn showed a flash of ability in the third when he retired the side without a run after the Papermakers had filled the stations with none out. He fanned Lathrop and caused the next two batters to retire without much of a struggle.

While the Papermakers were stinging the Indians, Sheboygan did a good turn by setting down Menasha, 6 to 2. Only a half game separated the Palls and the Papermakers before the afternoon game and the win here and Menasha's loss at Sheboygan put the Sylvester crew a half game ahead of the Palls.

The Indians got a man to second in the first inning when Serio reached first after he stopped a fast ball with his back and was sacrificed to the second station where he was stranded. The Sylvester did a little better, scoring one run on a pass to Sylvester and Lathrop's fierce drive against the fence in centerfield, good for two bases.

The second inning was a whole lot like the first in that Oshkosh had a chance to score but didn't, while the Papermakers managed to sneak over another run. Les Smith leaned on the ball for two bases as a starter, and romped the rest of the way home on Wenzel's lazy single to first base.

FILLED BASES; NO RUNS. The Papermakers looked like world-beaters for a few minutes in the third. Three safe hits by Len Smith, Marty Lamers and Sylvester filled the sacks with none out. It looked like curtains for Blackburn who had sort of a hopeless grin on his face as he faced big Bill Lathrop. He put something on the ball and bill whiffed on three low ones. Weisgerber grounded weakly, forcing Len Smith at the plate. Les Smith hustled the ball to the right field fence but Durham backed against the boards and pulled it out of the air for the third out.

Thereafter there wasn't anything doing until the sixth when the Indians got one of their runs back. After Wilson skied out, Durham got a life when Lennie Smith dropped his short fly to leftfield. Bixby busted the ball to M. Lamers who tagged Durham and threw wildly to Weisgerber in an effort to complete a double play. Bixby was resting on second when the ball was recovered. Keating followed with a single to centerfield which scored Bixby. Meyers whiffed for the third out.

Then came that glorious seventh. Wenzel reached for a high one and laid the ball in leftfield for a single. R. Smith rolled the ball along the first base line for a sacrifice but beat the throw to the sack and got a hit. Ditto Len Smith. With the bases occupied, Marty Lamers clouted the first out, pitched over the leftfield wall and out and then a new attack was started. Lathrop was walking. Weisgerber was safe of Serio's error and Les Smith followed with a blinding single into rightfield, sending Lathrop home. That was enough for Blackburn. He walked to the bench and Childs faced T. Lamers. Ted gave him a regular reception, blinding the ball through the pitcher's box for a single, scoring Weisgerber. Wenzel rounded out and the two Smith boys—Red and Lennie—each piled a second hit of the inning and another run was counted, making eight in all. Lamers fanned, Wilson's triple, with one gone in the eighth, followed by a sacrifice fly by Durham, gave the enemy their second run. Childs managed to get away unhurt in the last Papermakers try at the plate.

Louisville—Russell Webb from the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. won the fifty yard national junior championship free style swim in 24.35 second over Peter Wettersmiller, 1 A. C.

Vauville, France—Maneyrol, the French aviator, established two new records when he covered twelve and a half miles on a Péguy motor, with a minimum consumption of 455 cubic centimeters of petrol and then rose to an altitude of 12,450 feet in 14 minutes.

Puzzling Plays by Billy Evans

THE PLAY. A few years ago two unusual plays came up in the Detroit American League grounds. Ground rules were in vogue. An overflood crowd caused ropes to be stretched in front of the right field bleachers. Balls hit into such territory were good for two bases. In one game a hard hit line drive struck in front of the roped territory, bounded over the heads of the spectators back of the ropes and went into the bleachers, without coming in contact with any person or thing on restricted territory. Later a batsman hit a fly ball which struck in the territory back of the ropes. It then bounded into the bleachers. Both plays appeared identical, yet different rulings were rendered in each case. The second hit was the longer. What would have been the proper ruling?

In the first play the proper ruling would have been to allow the batsman a home run, which the umpire did. The ball struck on playing territory in front of the ropes and then bounded over the crowd into the bleachers, making such a hit a home run. In the other case the batsman was stranted two bases as covered by the ground rule, even though the hit was a longer drive than the other one. In the second place the ball struck the ground back of the ropes, in territory restricted to two bases. The moment it struck the ground in such territory back of the ropes it became a two-base hit, regardless of what happened later. The ball immediately became dead when it so hit, and the fact that it then bounded into the bleachers meant nothing.

TWO HOMERUNS IN NINTH WIN, 4-3 FOR YANKS AT CHICAGO

Pirates Cop Lead In First And Beat, Brooklyn, 9 To 2

Chicago — Jack Bentley and Jimmy O'Connell each knocked out a homerun in the ninth inning of the New York Nationals' game with the Chicago Cubs Sunday and won a brilliant game, 4 to 3. Bentley was the last man around the circuit and by the time he had reached third base, a crowd of several thousand fans was waiting to escort him home. Bentley and O'Connell cost the Giants $140,000. But as far as the fans were concerned, they earned it and more. The runs came at an especially appropriate time as the Giants would have been even in games lost with the Cincinnati Reds if they dropped the contest.

Pittsburgh and Brooklyn played the only other game in the National League, the Pirates winning, 9 to 2, after holding the lead from the first inning. The New York Americans were defeated by Cleveland, 4 to 3. The Detroit Americans beat the Washington Senators in Detroit, 5 to 4. In a 13 inning contest, Shocker pitched the St. Louis Americans to a decisive victory against Philadelphia, winning 4 to 1, and allowing only three hits all singles. The Boston Red Sox won the second game of their present Chicago series from the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 4.

When Wallie Schang of the New York Americans made a crazy throw into right field in the ninth inning of the game with the Cleveland Indians he threw away the game for the Yankees.

George Uhle of Cleveland won his sixth consecutive victory of the season over the New York Americans.

In the American League game between Detroit and Washington, Hellmann, Cobb and Goslin hit homers.

Ken Williams of the St. Louis Americans hit his twenty-fifth homer of the season in the game with Philadelphia.

GREEN BAY WINS, 4-2 OVER 'M' TWINS IN COMEDY OF ERRORS

Kromer's Comers Defeat Amateur League Leaders By Rally In Sixth

Kromer's Comers won from the league leading Green Bay Amateurs, 5 to 4, in Sunday's contest at Kaukauna. The Kaukauna team scored a run in the initial inning, but was overtaken in the third. In the fifth stanza the Green Bay tribe knocked two more tallies and another in the sixth. A storm of hits and several errors gave the Comers their chance in the next two times up, and they used it to top three more tallies in the sixth, and four in the seventh. Melchior of the Kromer club, knocked the pill over the leftfield fence in the seventh, scoring one man ahead of him.

The score by innings: 1 0 0 0 3 4 0 0 8. Green Bay 5, 0 0 1 0 2 1 0 0 9. Batteries: Comers, Hass, LeMaire, Wagon, Gertz and Cooper and Kilgas; Green Bay, Schuette and Bayer.

Smith's caddy, on all the greens in a match with Jones, indicated the line of Smith's putts with a club and held the club in position while Smithputted. The club held by Smith's caddy did not touch the ground but unquestionably was of great aid to Smith in his putting. Was Smith within his rights in having his caddy indicate the line of putt?

Smith was in error and should suffer a two-stroke penalty for each violation. It is merely permissible to print out the direction for putting before the stroke is made. This disputed point is covered by section 1 of rule 29.

A is playing B and giving him one stroke a hole. They both score a five on a certain hole in which A had the honor. Since each scored a five does A retain the honor at the next tee? Although each made a five on the hole, B won the hole since A was giving him a one-stroke handicap. That of course entitles B to the honor on the next tee.

Is there a penalty if a player's ball strikes a flag stick which has been permitted to remain in the hole? There is no penalty if a player's ball strikes the flag stick while it is in the hole, regardless of the distance the ball is played from.

MAYEFSKIS BEAT RIVALS, 5-4, BY TALLY IN NINTH

Rucinski's Homerun In Second Scores First Run For Regulars

Mayefski's Amateurs defeated the Appleton Rivals, 5 to 4. In a close fought contest at Interlake park Sunday afternoon. The game was the Rivals' up to the eighth, when two runs by the Regulars tied the score. Errors by Centerfielder Currie and Shortstop Drexler permitted the Mayefskis to score the winning tally in the ninth, when Joe Mayefski poked a high fly to centerfield, which Currie fumbled but finally threw to Drexler, who also muffed the ball.

Brautigan pitched good ball for the Rivals. He got himself out of four tight pinches, when with bases full, he retired the opposing team without a score. The Rival's pitcher struck out nine men and allowed eight hits, while Niles, who pitched for the Regulars, struck out six and allowed seven safeties. Rucinski's homer in the second scored the first run for the Mayefskis. Brautigan and Schuler starred for the Rivals, both in the field and at bat.

Workouts Show Luis' Ring Tactics Better

Atlantic City—Unleashing some of the power of his massive shoulders in his daily workout at the Houdouin racing park Sunday afternoon, Luis Angel Firpo administered sound thrashings to three sparring partners and showed some improvement in his battle technique.

All three of the punch catchers, Joe McCann, the Newark heavyweight; Jeff Clarke, the "black ghost" of John and Natty Natalie Pava, the Argentine Adonis, were badly shaken. Firpo appeared to have solved the fighting styles of all three in earlier workouts and prevented any of them from laying a glove on him on Sunday. Firpo has shown such remarkable ability against the slow heavy men that Dempsey is not a slow man and that Dempsey is not a slow man and that if Firpo is to be properly trained he must have fast men to punch at.

Each of Sunday's punch absorbers worked two rounds with Luis Angel. McCann was sent from the ring with a bloody nose and big red marks on his arms and body. Clarke, who was able in his first workout on Saturday to swing rights and lefts to Firpo's jaw from a crouching posture, failed to land one good punch on Sunday and was sent tottering across the ring near the close of the session from a right sent low in inside to the chin. Clarke, though 34 years old, still is a wily boxer, but he said the South American was the strongest man he ever saw in the ring.

Firpo passed up all work Sunday morning, contenting himself with a light setting up exercise inside his cottage, and working his legs on the pedals of the player piano. Some of the latest popular American pieces with words on the rolls have been added to the Argentine tango collection in the music cabinet and Luis Angel is using them to learn English.

aggregation from fourth to fifth place. The league leading Combined Locks, the league walked away from the Coated Paper team, 29 to 2, in a barrage of hits.

For River made a brilliant comeback by defeating Thilmann, 7 to 3. Thilmann showed considerably more pep played a good game. The Fox River tribe is now tied with Tuttle Press for third place. One of the chief factors in Fox River's victory was a homerun by Bates with one man on. Reider pitched an excellent game for the Fox River tribe, and allowed but one hit after the first inning, putting eleven of the hostiles out by the strikeout route.

Interlake humbled the strong Tuttle Press team, 7 to 3, in the best game of the Factories on Saturday. All the players of both clubs showed good headwork and were on their toes every minute. A storm of bunched hits late in the game was the cause of the Interlake victory.
